Americans Late To File Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service figures it is short about 20 million income tax returns, with only five days left until the April 15 deadline.

And millions of taxpayers who got their returns in early made mistakes, in part because of changes in the 1976 Tax Reform Act.

This year, about 9.5 per cent of the nearly 31 million persons filing 1040 forms by April 1 made mistakes, the IRS says. The error rate on the 23.1 million 1040A forms was even higher, 13.6 per cent.

One way to reduce the possibility of error, IRS officials say, is to let them calculate your taxes.

That provides the added benefit of not having to send a check to the government until it sends you a bill, probably several weeks from now.

The IRS will figure taxes on short forms if they contain necessary information on earnings and taxes paid. Tax bureaucrats can take care of the two calculations which seem to cause the most difficulty, the standard deduction and the general tax credit.

If you want to file your own taxes, but don't think you're going to get all the calculations made in time, the government offers an extension — but it may cost more money.

If you send a Form 4868 to the IRS by Friday, you gain a reprieve of 60 days. But if you owe the government taxes, you have to include an estimate of how much, and submit a check with the estimate.

If you underestimate, you will have to pay interest at an annual rate of 7 per cent on the unpaid balance. If you are off by 10 per cent, the government imposes an additional penalty of 1/2 of 1 per cent a month.

And if you expect money back, don't expect it too soon. The wait is about six weeks, the IRS says.

Steelworkers' Contract May Hike Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new contract covering 340,000 of the nation's steelworkers is expected to push steel prices higher, but not enough to worry the government's inflation-watchers.

"We all know that ultimately prices must cover costs," J. Bruce Johnston, vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and chief industry negotiator, said after union officials ratified the agreement with the 10 largest steelmakers on Saturday.

Retiring Steelworkers Union President I.W. Abel said the final contract negotiated under his leadership was not inflationary.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability will review the pact, as it does all labor agreements. But Jack A. Meyer, the council's acting assistant director, said the contract was about what officials anticipated.

"It appears to have come in at about what we expected. There doesn't seem to be anything shocking or unusual about it," he said.

Local union leaders initially rejected the contract, then reversed themselves on a roll call vote and approved it.

"This is the biggest disappointment of my life," Abel reportedly told local leaders after their initial rejection.

The dissension apparently was a carryover from the recent bitter election battle between Lloyd McBride and Ed Sadlowski to succeed Abel.

McBride, the victor, said the contract in effect guarantees job security to all workers with two decades of service.

The new three-year contract provides steelworkers with an increase of 10 to 15 per cent over the current $8.08 average hourly wage. There are also provisions for incentive pay and cost-of-living increases in the contract, which starts Aug. 1.

Hourly wages will increase 80 cents over the three years in steps of 40 cents, 20 cents and 20 cents. Incentive pay will add another dime.

Steelworkers will receive beefed-up pensions and increased supplemental jobless benefits on top of regular unemployment insurance.

Workers will be permitted to retire early when their age and length of service total 65 and they have worked 20 years in the mills.

U.S. Seizes Soviet Trawlers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two Soviet vessels were under Coast Guard control today for apparently violating provisions of the 200-mile fishing limit.

The first craft, a fishing trawler, was taken to Boston Harbor today by the Coast guard.

The second ship, a cargo ship carrying fish, was seized Sunday 160 miles east-southeast of Nantucket Island, the Coast Guard announced Monday.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the latest Soviet ship to be seized, the Antanas Snehkus, was boarded by Coast Guard and National Marine Fishery Service personnel from the Coast Guard cutter Reliance at 8:40 a.m. Sunday. The boarding occurred approximately 160 miles east-southeast of Nantucket Island, the spokesman said.

The vessel was alleged to have several species of fish prohibited by regulations implemented under the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976.

The 275-foot Taras Shevchenko, carrying a crew of 93, was seized southeast of Boston Saturday and taken to Boston Harbor in an apparent crackdown on ships violating fishing restrictions.

The Coast Guard has issued more than 60 citations and warnings to Soviet fishing vessels since the 200-mile limit went into effect March 1.

"We've released several of them," President Carter said of the Soviet ships as he left Easter services in Georgia on Sunday. "But we just had to draw the line somewhere. We informed the Soviet embassy this past week we couldn't continue to release them, that we had to enforce the law." Authority over the impounded ship passes to the U.S. Attorney in Boston once the ship docks at the Coast Guard station and is searched by customs officials. The crew will remain on board, with the gangway guarded and small craft prevented from approaching the impounded trawler.

The Taras Shevchenko was between 60 and 100 miles inside the limit when it was boarded about noon Saturday by a party from the cutter Decisive, the Coast Guard said. The vessel was officially seized about 10 hours later for allegedly catching and keeping about 3,500 pounds more than its quota of river herring, which, under licensing provisions, may account for only 1 per cent of the total processed fish aboard, the Coast Guard said.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Nunes, chief of the Coast Guard's Maritime Law Enforcement branch, said there were four tons of the fish — or 1.2 per cent of the catch — aboard the vessel.

Garden Seed Sales Boom

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Sales of garden seeds are booming as millions of consumers take out homegrown insurance against feared increases in fruit and vegetable prices following a severe winter and the continued Western drought.

Americans turned to gardening in large numbers in 1974 and 1975, when food prices soared. The rate of price increases declined last year and so did the number of gardeners.

Now predictions of high prices ahead have boosted business once again, and retailers predict more backyard vegetable plots during the summer.

Supermarket News, a trade publication, said a survey of grocery stores showed new interest in seeds. Most stores said that 60 per cent of their seeds were for vegetables and 40 per cent for flowers. A few said the vegetable-to-flower ratio was 80-20.

Colonial Stores, an Atlanta-based chain, dropped seeds last year but reintroduced them this spring and has increased its stock.

An official of a Dallas supermarket said, "We already are experiencing more sales than last year and have some out-of-stock situations right now."

Prices for seeds generally start at 39 cents a packet — an increase of about a dime or so over recent years.

Burpee, the nation's largest mail-order seed company, sent postcards to regular customers, warning them to order early to avoid the expected crush. "We started off the year slowly ... but all of a sudden our order volume has been unbelievable," said company president William MacDowell late in February.

If you are thinking of planting a home garden, you should do some checking before you start digging. Ask local gardeners for advice on what types of vegetables grow best in your area and find out about soil conditions and planting times.

Mark Cathey, an Agriculture Department expert, says that first-time gardeners should not overdo it. "Think small, start small," says Cathey.

He says a 10-foot by 10-foot plot should provide enough vegetables for a family of four or five — if everything grows. You will have to spend about an hour a week on the garden after the initial planting.

Most vegetables need at least six hours a day of direct sunlight. If your yard is shady, consider teaming up with a neighbor for better results.

The easiest items to grow, according to Cathey, are salad bowl lettuce, bell peppers, eggplant, zucchini, squash and New Zealand or hot weather spinach. Check your family tastes before you plant anything; you won't save money if you have a garden full of vegetables that no one will eat.

Follow instructions on seed packages regarding depth of planting and distance of rows. Depending on what you plant, you may see sprouts within a few days or you may have to wait for more than two weeks.

Make sure the seeds you buy are fresh. Look for the words "packed for 1977" on the label, meaning a state or federal agency has certified the seed and confirmed the germination rate. One package of seeds should last for a couple of years if you keep the package in a covered glass jar or plastic bag and put it in the refrigerator.

SUMMER PUPPETRY CARAVAN — Kay Sahr, Larry Lewis, Harold Hewitt, and Judy Bennington are members of a committee attempting to bring the Summer Puppetry Caravan to Circleville. Five representatives from Berea College will give a workshop for one week for up to 60 people and they will give three performances for the public and one by members of the workshop. The performances will be given in different areas of the county. A tentative date for the workshop is June 20. The puppet shows will concentrate on Appalachian lore and mountain culture. Registration information will be announced at a later date.

Carter's Vote Plan Backs Republicans Into Corner

WASHINGTON (AP) — They've backed into corners before, but Republicans seldom have found themselves in a box like the one they're in over President Carter's proposal to let people vote without registering in advance.

But then, as GOP chairman Bill Brock acknowledges, "We have a knack for taking on hard cases."

This one is really hard. If GOP leaders oppose the bill, they look like obstructionists, trying to block what Carter describes as comprehensive election reform.

Accept it, and they risk trouble in future elections and in the ranks of their own Republican minority, for that dramatically broadened voter registration would almost surely work to the advantage of the Democrats.

Arguing for the bill at a House hearing, Attorney General Griffin Bell suggested that current voter registration laws discriminate against minority groups, the less educated and the poor by making it more difficult for them to cast ballots.

Those prospective voters are more likely to side with Democrats than with Republican candidates.

That's an issue too delicate to debate, since no politician can afford to confess that he wants anything but the broadest possible turnout of voters.

Sen. Charles Mathias, a liberal Republican from Maryland, is co-sponsoring the Carter bill, and he says it should pass even if it would work to Democratic advantage.

"If the registration of several million more Americans means trouble for the Republican party, the Republican party is going to have to do some renovating ... to embrace a wider spectrum of the American electorate," he said.

Brock and the party's congressional leaders spoke at the outset as though they were supporting the bill Carter sent to Congress on March 22, but they have since pointed up their reservations.

Brock said he was talking about the objective of broadening voter participation, not about the bill Carter proposed. That distinction was lost on more than a few Republican leaders around the country, who wasted no time in protesting to GOP headquarters.

When the Carter bill was proposed, Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker Jr. endorsed some sort of universal voter registration. House GOP Leader John Rhodes of Arizona went further, and forecast approval of the measure with little change and with substantial Republican support.

Baker has since expressed concern about potential abuses, and Rhodes has told colleagues there should be amendments to tighten it against fraud.

What Carter wants is a bill that would require the states to let people register at the polls on election day, identifying themselves with a driver's license or a similar ID card, or by having a registered voter vouch for them.

There would be stiff penalties, fines and prison terms up to five years for fraudulent registration and voting.

But the administration says fraud has not been a serious problem in the five states that now permit voting without advance registration.

Peres Commands Israel's Laborists

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Shimon Peres took command of Israel's embattled Labor party today as a last-minute candidate for prime minister, dogged by the reputation of being a hawk on peace terms with the Arabs and the threatened defection of Labor's leftist ally, the Mafam party.

The Labor party's central committee chose Peres, 53, to lead the party in the general election May 17 following Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's resignation over an illegal account he and his wife had in a

Washington, D.C., bank.

Mapam's central committee was to meet today to decide whether to continue in partnership with Labor under Peres, whom it has consistently opposed as a hardliner toward the Arabs.

Peres, who has been defense minister since 1974, denied at a news conference after his election Sunday that he is a hawk.

"My political training is such that I have learned to form opinions relevant to the situation," he said.

In the desire for peace "we are all — hawks, doves, left and right — serious to the very end, we are unanimous," he declared.

His hardline image appears to stem more from his past alliances than his own public statements. Oldtime politicians remember him as a disciple of the eye-for-an-eye philosophy evolved by David Ben-Gurion and Moshe Dayan to fight Palestinian guerrilla attacks against Israel.

Peres — Hebrew for eagle — has also given tacit support to Gush Emunim, the right-wing nationalist movement which advocates annexation of the West Bank of the Jordan River occupied by Israel in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War. But now he says he is willing to trade parts of the West Bank for peace.

At his news conference Sunday he said he would make "no substantial change" in Rabin's foreign policy.

He said he did not object to renewing the Geneva peace conference this year and that he would negotiate with Palestinians from the West Bank or Palestinians in a Jordanian delegation but not with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Peres said he had "a long record of cooperation" with the United States, admired President Carter and thought it would be "a good idea" for him to visit Washington this year.

The 815-member party committee chose Peres with a show of hands after his only rival, Foreign Minister Yigal Alon, agreed to step aside and become defense minister if Labor wins the election.

Rabin, meanwhile, remains caretaker prime minister until the election unless the cabinet accedes to his request for a leave of absence. It is not certain, however, that this would be constitutional, and this may not be decided until next week.

GOP Leader Resigns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kent B. McGough today resigned today as Republican Party state chairman and called a state committee meeting early in May to select his successor.

McGough said he will stay on the job until May 15, or a new state chairman is chosen.

"Upon assuming the state chairmanship in 1973, I had expected to return to private business after the 1976 elections," veteran politician told a news conference. "However, I felt I should accept the responsibilities of organizing programs upon which the state committee embarked in January 1977."

"These programs now are in process and I believe it is time for me to turn over the leadership of our party to a new chairman," McGough said.

Top Marine NCO Prefers Old Job As Foot Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. Maj. John R. Massaro of Orrville is the highest ranking enlisted man in the Marines and a footslogger at heart.

He may have a big office next to that of Gen. Louis H. Wilson, the Marine commandant, but Massaro prefers the life of basic training camp and the infantry squad.

The 47-year-old noncommissioned officer wears neat, starched uniforms to work but on his chest are a colorful deck of combat ribbons.

"Back in the days when I enlisted," Massaro says, "a young Marine didn't come from a background where he had very much. Basically, he expected the Marine Corps to keep some type of roof over his head, clothing on his back and to give him three squares a day. In addition to that, if he could get a few beers, he was happy."

A sergeant major in peacetime acts the part of a fugleman, a sort of living poster for other enlisted Marines to emulate. And Massaro fits the part.

At six feet and 175 pounds he can still score 278 out of a perfect 300 on the Marines physical fitness test. When he enlisted in the Marines 29 years ago he was 140 pounds.

His father, who made a living pounding iron fasteners into the ends of telephone poles and railroad ties, couldn't afford to send his son to college. So Massaro had to give up his wish of studying agriculture at Ohio State University. He joined the Marines to see the world.

At first, the world was only as large as Paris Island, S.C. where he got his basic training. Later it consisted of the Korean front and still later it included the rice paddies in Vietnam.

"When I was a young Marine nearly all the Marines were riflemen," a wistful Massaro recalls. "In the Korean War, (some) cooks and bakers and motor transport men actually had to pick up a rifle and join Marines in rifle squads and infantry platoons."

"It is no longer a truism that every Marine is a rifleman. Many of our fields are so advanced, so technical — computer operators, key punch operators — without that much emphasis on being a rifleman."

Massaro doesn't want to forget the rifleman's regimen. Four days a week, he runs five miles.

Golden Sewage

Many famous gold discoveries occurred while prospectors were looking for other minerals. True to tradition, it was a possible source of fertilizer U.S. Geological Survey scientists were seeking in the sewage residue from Palo Alto, Calif., when they struck gold and silver.

Claiming that the precious metal content of the sludge assayed out to greater amounts than found in the 19th century Comstock Lode of Virginia City, Nevada, the scientists can be forgiven if they forgot about the fertilizer.

"If this were an ore body, it could be called 'bonanza' ore," said geologist Robert Gulbrandsen.

Cautioning that the extremely high ore content in Palo Alto's sewage probably reflects a concentration of photographic and electronic industries in the area, the geological team admits it doesn't know what sewage systems elsewhere might reveal.

If the spirit of prospecting has not dulled in the last century, others right now are preparing to find out.

Happy Hacker

By JIM BISHOP

Golf. Sex under the sun. Frustrating fun. A little ball on a great big one. Lawful insanity. The Happy Hacker. It is a game, a sport, in which grown men flog, flail, flush, fracture and foul a green landscape on which 18 holes are hidden.

It was named by drunken Scots after listening to barking dogs. Golf is played by 20 million immature American men whose wives think they are out there having fun. The rhetorical question, "What do you lie?" is accented on the final word.

Some time ago I devised a lexicon of golf terms. As you draw the old bag full of clubs out of the garage, try to memorize these:

GIMME: An agreement between two losers who can't putt.

BALL: A round white sphere; the one thing which smiles after the first hole.

IT'LL PLAY: Your partner's cheerful comment after you hook, slice, fade or dribble into the woods. It is synonymous with "won't hurcha." Bad news.

STYMIE: An object directly in line between your ball and the green. Like a five-story apartment house built while your ball was in flight.

TREE: Something you shoot through because someone said they are 80 per cent air. A painful fallacy.

WATER HAZARD: The final resting place of all golf balls. A series of 40-fathom lakes which should be emailed to drought-stricken California.

GREEN: A far-off oasis featured by an alien flag on a stick. Never-never land.

DUFFER: All of us.

RUB-OF-THE-GREEN: What you take from your wallet and give to your adversary after the match is over.

RELAX: A state no golfer can afford if he wants to play. The proper emotional state is tension, hatred and repeated humiliation.

MULLIGAN: Invented by an Irishman who wanted to hit one more 20-yard grounder.

PUTT: Applying the blade of a small club in a tender manner to the back of the ball. This exercise is always followed by anguished eyes directed toward heaven.

FAIRWAY: A long broad stretch of grass seldom seen by determined players.

TRAP: Also bunker. Like prison, easy to get into, hard to get out.

GROUND UNDER REPAIR: The whole course.

GIMME-A-SEVEN: The player's words to the scorekeeper after carding an 11.

JEEZ: A futile appeal to the deity while the ball is in flight.

GOOD MISS: A shot which shears every third blade of grass.

MARKER: A disc placed a foot nearer the hole than the ball.

PIGEON: Something every golfer needs. Someone who can make 126 look good.

O.B.: Out of bounds, as in making a pass at your fellow sufferer's wife. A stake akin to what Dracula had hammered in his heart.

SHANK: A horrifying trick shot executed by hackers who aiming north, hit east. Not quite in the class of leprosy, which is curable.

STARTING TIME: The only time you will find the doctor on time.

HOOK: The addition of 50 per cent of all golfers.

SLICE: The weakness of the other half.

HOLE HIGH: Right club, wrong direction.

CLUB: A poorly designed weapon which the golfer must learn to embrace with both hands no matter how many times it betrays him.

BLAST: Hitting two inches of sand

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

A 19-year-old law designed to protect Americans from hazardous exposure to cancer-producing chemical additives in our food supply may be creating a greater health hazard than it is preventing.

It has resulted in a ban on saccharin, and its victims could number in the millions. In an effort to avert possibly tragic consequences, I have joined in sponsoring legislation to halt the ban before the artificial sweetener is withdrawn from the market some four months from now.

The law in question is the so-called Delaney Amendment, which was added in 1958 to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, and which bans any food additive that "is found to induce cancer when ingested by man or animal."

The amendment was the product of a select committee investigation into the use of chemicals in food, and its intentions were good. However, as we have learned, first with cyclamates and now with saccharin, the law is unyielding and prohibits the Food and Drug Administration from using any discretion in its actions on such additives.

It excludes the possibility of a judgment on whether removal of a product from the marketplace does more harm than good. Furthermore, it does not allow consideration of more valid medical evidence.

In the case of saccharin, the ban rests on no more evidence than the appearance of cancer in laboratory rats fed massive doses of the additive in a Canadian experiment. A human would have to drink 800 twelve-ounce bottles of diet soda a day, for the rest of his life, to take in as much saccharin as the equivalences fed the rats.

Not considered in the decision to ban saccharin was an American study, conducted at Albany Medical College, during which Rhesus Monkeys were fed heavy doses of saccharin over a six-and-a-half-year period with no resulting cancers.

On balance, a study on monkeys would seem more relevant to human reactions than one conducted on rats.

The real hazard lies in the possible unavailability of saccharin to this nation's 10 million diabetics who depend on the artificial sweetener. Add to that group, millions more who are overweight and/or are heart patients. Many elderly invalids use saccharin as a means of strictly controlling their diets as well.

Since the announcement of the proposed ban, many bills have been introduced to revise the strict language in the Delaney Amendment. That is all well and good, but such revisions will necessitate detailed discussion and examination into the best approach.

In the meantime, since saccharin is scheduled to be withdrawn in a scant four months, action is needed quickly to keep it on the market, while Congress reexamines language in the present law.

The bill which I am co-sponsoring will do just that. H.R. 5950 is direct and to the point, saying simply that the Delaney Amendment will not apply to saccharin.

The case against saccharin has not been made — far from it. Because of the rigidity of existing law, the FDA is basing its unwise action on the least valid evidence available.

Even the Acting Director of the National Cancer Institute has concluded that it is reasonable to doubt that saccharin causes cancer in humans.

On the other hand, the consequences of not having saccharin available for those who have a medical need for it are only too well known.

We have plenty of need to act. What we do not have is plenty of time.

Couple Remarries After 42 Years

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — James (Grandpa Billy) Petrey and Nona Prewitt have decided to give their relationship another try 42 years after they were divorced.

Surrounded by their three children, 13 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren, 81-year-old Petrey and 71-year-old Mrs. Prewitt Saturday retied the knot that was broken in 1935 when they divorced after 14 years of marriage.

The couple was first married in 1921. After their divorce, each remarried. Mrs. Prewitt was widowed and Petrey divorced his second wife.

The blushing bridegroom says his former wife-new bride did not recognize him at first when he called her for a date two years ago.

It took him until January of this year to propose.

Their daughter, Nora Myers, says she always knew her parents would get back together.

After a ceremony complete with a three-tiered wedding cake, the couple left on a California honeymoon.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Now, don't tell the doctor that I hurt all over! That could run into money!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Does a bedtime snack interfere with a good night's sleep? I insist that my husband's problem is that he overloads his stomach and then burps his way through the night.

Mrs. L.E.R., Fla.

Dear Mrs. R.:

There are some who insist that they can get a good night's sleep only after a hefty sandwich and a glass of beer. There are others who are disturbed all night if they eat one cracker and a glass of warm milk.

Almost everyone knows by past experience whether or not they should take any food at all shortly before going to sleep.

In general, I think it is not wise to overload the stomach with food before going to bed.

People who have a hiatus hernia (there are many who do) will be particularly distressed by undigested food which gets caught in the pocket of the hernia.

A reasonable light snack taken about an hour before retiring should not cause any distress.

If your husband "burps his way through the night" it's obvious that his indulgence should be reduced or eliminated.

There are some special medical conditions, such as a stomach ulcer that must be catered to by a small intake of food and antacid drugs. Many such patients are awakened during the night with abdominal pain that can be relieved by drinking some milk with crackers.

Unless one learns by past experience about the amount and the character of food they eat, they can only expect repeat of their discomfort.

Whenever I catch a cold the glands in my neck become swollen for a long time, sometimes until the next cold. Why doesn't the swelling go down and why don't the glands disappear completely?

Miss B.B.T., Idaho

Dear Miss T.:

The lymph gland system is the most remarkable protective device that the body has against infections. The body always has glands. The only time they are enlarged is when they are inflamed and swollen.

The glands in the neck are the body's protection that keeps bacteria from extending from the tonsil area down into the chest. Glands in the groin may become enlarged when an infection of the toe is present. These glands prevent extension of the infection into a distant area. The same is true of glands in the armpits.

Glands sometimes do remain hard and enlarged long after an infection of the throat disappears. This should not be a source of concern.

New Indian History

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago's Newberry Library recently received a grant to prepare an Atlas of Great Lakes Indian History.

The atlas will deal with Indian history and Indian-white relations in the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley region from 1615 to 1871. It will cover such disruptions to Indian life as inter-tribal warfare, refugee movements, epidemics, international treaties, encroachment by white settlers and the establishment of reservations and land allotments.

Leach Acquitted Of Kidnap Charge

CLEVELAND (AP) — Thirteen persons testified that former combat medic Ashby Leach held them at gunpoint against their will, but a jury refused to convict him of kidnaping.

The verdict has prosecution and defense scratching their heads with wonder.

Free on a $100,000 appeal bond, Leach has not repudiated his actions. But he has denied he was a kidnaper or petty criminal.

"This is an example of jury nullification," said Robert Kinkel, one of the prosecutors. "The jury chose to ignore the law, possibly because of Leach's personal appeal."

On the other hand, defense attorney R. Raymond Twohig said, "It's quite possible Leach could have been convicted if the charge had been abduction or unlawful restraint. Those charges differ in the kind of intent in holding somebody.... The jury probably did not want to treat this as a heavy, heavy crime such as kidnaping."

The charges stemmed from the August 1976 day Leach walked into the Cleveland headquarters of the Chessie System railroad company, his former employer, and demanded to see the company president. When he was told the president was not in, Leach rounded up 13 persons in the office while he negotiated with company officials.

He said he wanted the company to participate in a GI Bill program that would give apprentice machinists supplemental pay while they underwent training—a benefit he didn't enjoy when he was a Chessie apprentice.

The central defense was based on Leach's intent—his state of mind when he took the captives. That shouldn't be confused with motive which in law denotes what prompts a person to act and cannot be used to defend a crime.

In opening trial statements, prosecutor Ray Gricar depicted Leach as someone who used the captives "as pawns to satisfy his whims and demands" and as someone who might have used his gun to hurt someone during the ordeal.

"We could not have presented a better case if we had a video tape of Leach in the hostage room," said Kinkel.

During the trial, Leach won the right to act as his own cocounsel. Dressed in dungarees, cowboy boots and a leather jacket, he fumed about "legal paper shuffling" in the case, accused Chessie of trying to do a "Railroad job" on him, said he held the captives under "protective custody" and as a protest and not for personal reward or to harm them, and said he apologized to the captives for detaining them and that although he broke the law, "I think it was educational for them."

Judge Ammer Denies Shock Probation To Six Persons

Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer today denied shock probation to six men presently serving prison sentences. They are:

Terry Lee Ratcliff, serving six months to five years in Mansfield Reformatory for breaking and entering and grand theft, denied because defendant previously was on probation in 1973-75 and again engaged in criminal activity.

Robert Lee Welvin, serving six months to five years in Mansfield Reformatory for breaking and entering and grand theft, denied because defendant violated his probation for breaking into a Stoutsville market by failing to respond to rehabilitation.

Timothy Walter Whitesed, serving two to five years in Mansfield Reformatory for receiving stolen property, vandalism, two counts of breaking and entering, denied because defendant has been involved in criminal acts in past and because of the number of charges against him.

Columbus Lee Workman, serving one to five years on charges of breaking and entering and vandalism, six months to five years on two charges of petty theft in Mansfield Reformatory, denied because defendant has had several charges in West Virginia and Franklin County and is serving an additional sentence from another court for receiving stolen property.

Food For Thought

Cooking Is The In Thing

The delicate flavor of the fish is enhanced with capers, tarragon, mushrooms, and a little wine.

BAKED STUFFED FISH

1 (4 pound) striped bass, red snapper, or cod
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion or scallions
4 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 small young cucumber, minced
1 tablespoon capers
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced, or 1 (3-to 4-ounce) can sliced mushrooms
1 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crumbled
¼ cup dry white wine

Have head and tail removed and fish slit all the way down one side.

Wash fish; dry with paper towel. Sprinkle inside and skin side with salt and pepper.

Saute onion in 3 tablespoons butter until limp. Stir in bread crumbs, cucumber, capers, mushrooms and tarragon. Blend well; add wine and cook a minute or two. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Remove from heat and cool slightly.

Fill slit in fish with dressing; close with skewers. Place in greased baking pan. Rub fish with remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Bake in 375 F. for 30 to 45 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Creative Writing Offered By YMCA

Creative Writing and Refresher Grammar are two of the specialty courses being offered at the Pickaway County YMCA, beginning Tuesday. Especially geared toward improvement of language skills, both courses are open to everyone.

In Creative Writing, students will develop and expand their writing styles by exploring such varied forms of writing as poetry, narration, and description. The course will include a look at the art of freelancing and hints on how to market written material.

Refresher Grammar is a quick brush-up course on the general rules governing language which most people have either forgotten or never really understood. The course presents a traditional approach to grammar and includes a review of the eight parts of speech as well as the finer points of points of usage.

The instructor for both courses will be Carol Smith. Creative Writing will be held on Tuesdays, 7-8 p.m., with Refresher Grammar 8-9 p.m. the same night.

For more information contact the Pickaway County Family YMCA, 151 E. Franklin St., or phone 477-1661.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Tell Unlikely Suitor He's Out Of Bounds

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow who is being pestered by a bachelor in whom I have no interest. But HE is interested in ME.

I work from 8 to 5, and when I come home I find him putting around in my garden, or sweeping my garage or driveway.

I told him I am not interested in marriage, sex, love or a live-in companion. He said HE was.

I don't want to have him arrested for trespassing on my property or harassing me, because I don't think he's dangerous.

How can I get this man to leave me alone without going to the law?

NOT THAT LONESOME

DEAR NOT: Tell him you will have him arrested if he doesn't stay off your property and quit bothering you. And if that doesn't work, you may have to call the police. He may not be dangerous, but you have a right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I gave our married son (who lives near us) a key to our home so he can come here to check up on things when we're out of town.

Well, it seems that while we're away, he and his wife come in and borrow whatever they want. We don't even know what they've borrowed until we look for something and can't find it. (I refer to serving trays, linen, card tables, garden tools and bottles from our bar!)

We've always been on good terms with our children and want to stay that way, but we think they have their nerve helping themselves to our things and not returning them.

Is there any way we can get our key back and put a stop to this without demanding it and hurting their feelings?

PHILADELPHIA PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: What's wrong with the direct approach? Simply ask them to return: (a) everything they've borrowed; (b) the key. And don't be bashful about telling them why.

DEAR ABBY: As a professional musician, I know I speak for all pianists and organists who have performed at parties and have wanted to tell the guests the following:

Please do not:
1. Sit on the bench with me and engage me in conversation. It makes it impossible for me to perform.

2. Place drinks on the organ or piano. (I've had whole drinks fall on the keyboards and saturate the organ.)

3. Decide that you can play, too, and then proceed to fiddle with the keys while I am playing.

4. Sing loudly into my ear. Abby, you would be doing all musicians a tremendous favor if you'd publish this.

R.G.R., THIBODAUX, LA.

DEAR R.G.R.: Consider it done.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEW READER" IN BEND, OREGON: You've gone from bad to worse. Bend is a very small town for people with big mouths. Take my advice and move to Portland.

Davis Attends Merchandising Seminar

Dick Davis, president of Richard E. Davis, Inc., 113 E. Main St., has joined a select group representing retailers and distributors from across the nation at a two-day merchandising seminar at Amana Refrigeration, Inc., headquarters in Amana, Iowa.

The group met with top company officials to discuss marketing, service and engineering features of Amana's product line, including the new Amana "2 PLUS 2½" Energy Saving Refrigerators and Corning 3 + 1 conventional cooking appliances, now made only by Amana. Also covered were Amana's Radarange (R) microwave ovens, room air conditioners and refrigerators, including the Amana 3-Door (TM) Ice 'N Water Side by Side refrigerator.

The expansion of Amana's product line to conventional cooking appliances follows the company's recent acquisition of the Major Appliance Division of Corning Glass Works.

In addition to product information meetings, the seminar featured a special tour of Amana's one million square foot Iowa manufacturing facility, including a recently completed 172,000 square foot addition for expanded refrigerator and Radarange oven production.

Amana's guests also toured the nearby Amana Colonies to savor the old world foods and atmosphere that abounds there. They saw first hand the century old traditions that have won the Colonies world fame for quality craftsmanship in many fields.

The bonds mature as follows: $7,600 on December 1, 1978 and $5,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1979 to 1987, both inclusive.

The bonds are issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of special assessments heretofore levied to pay the costs of improving Jefferson Street and Station Street between certain termini, by grading, paving, curbing, draining and constructing gutters and storm sewers.

The bonds will be payable, without deduction for the services of the issuer's paying agent, at the office of The Ashville Bank of Ashville, Ashville, Ohio, and unless paid from other sources, are to be paid by the levy of ad valorem taxes, within the limitations imposed by law, subject to the provisions of Chapter IX of the federal Bankruptcy Act and other laws affecting creditors' rights.

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, whose approving opinion will be furnished at the cost of the successful bidder and will be printed on the bonds. The issuer will pay the cost of printing the bonds. A complete transcript of proceedings will be furnished by the issuer, together with a certificate showing no litigation pending or threatened at the time of the delivery to enjoin delivery or to contest the validity of the bonds or the power to issue them or the levy or collection of taxes for their payment.

CUSIP numbers will be printed on the bonds if available and requested by the successful bidder. Any delay, error or omission with respect thereto shall not constitute cause for the successful bidder to refuse to accept delivery of and pay for the bonds. Any CUSIP Service Bureau charge for the assignment of the numbers shall be the responsibility of the successful bidder.

The bids will be promptly considered, and the bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. The lowest interest rate will be determined by calculating the total interest to be paid at maturity at the rate bid and deducting therefrom any premium bid. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of the highest bids as is chosen by lot. All bids must be accompanied by cash, bank cashier's or official's check or certified check payable to the issuer, or any combination thereof, aggregating one per cent of the par amount of the bonds, upon the condition that, if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for the bonds in accordance with the terms and provisions of this notice. No bank bidding for the bonds shall file its own cashier's or official's check, nor a check certified by it. Such security shall be held by the issuer unused pending delivery of the bonds and forfeited as full liquidated damages in the event of default by the successful bidder.

In the event that, prior to their delivery, the interest on the bonds should by act of congress or other become subject to Federal income taxes, or an act of Congress should provide that the interest income on bonds shall be taxable at a future date for Federal income tax purposes, whether directly or indirectly, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bid security shall be returned without interest.

The bonds shall be delivered for payment within the State of Ohio to the successful bidder or to a bank designated by the successful bidder without charge. If delivered at a place outside of the State of Ohio, the successful bidder shall pay the expense of delivery at that place. The expense of delivery within the State of Ohio shall not be considered in determining the highest bid.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery, the issuer shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the fifth business day before the proposed tender, of the fact that the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion will be available for delivery at the place of delivery, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given by the issuer or waived by the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery to the successful bidder at such place of delivery on or before 12:00 o'clock noon on the 30th calendar day after the day fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, he shall have the right thereafter, and so long as no such tender by the issuer shall yet have been made, to cancel the contract of purchase. Any such right shall be exercised by delivering written notice or such cancellation to the undersigned or to the office of the undersigned during business hours. Such bidder shall thereupon be entitled to the return of the deposit which accompanied his bid and it shall be returned to him immediately.

The right is reserved to reject bids within the Village of Ashville, Ohio By Raymond R. Lindsey, Clerk.

governor with the final word on his appointments, form an interesting composite.

The average senator is male, white, 45 years old, and the father of two sons. The odds are about 4-5 that he has a college degree and 4-1 that the degree is in law.

Thirty two—or all but one senator—are male. Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, is the only distaff lawmaker. She also is one of only four single senators and is one of the eight with a degree in law.

The youngest member of the upper chamber, John K. Mahoney, D-10 Springfield, is 27, while the oldest, Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, lists his age at 68 after serving in the Senate for 22 years.

In between, five senators are 34, three 45, and three 51—making up the biggest individual age categories in a roster that shows 45 the median age.

The dean of the entire Senate in terms of service is 49, and not a member of the Democratic majority which controls the chamber 21-12. He is Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Columbus, who came to the Senate in 1951 and served as majority leader from 1966-1974 while his party controlled the Senate.

Two senators are black, and both are men who hold important posts. The Senate, and the House as well, haven't had a woman black member at least in recent state history.

Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, assistant majority leader and in his 10th year as a senator, is chairman of the Education and Health Committee. He is 53. Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, is 47. He heads the Commerce and Labor Committee, midway in his second, four-year term.

The 21 Senate Democrats have a total of 54 children, while the dozen Republicans have 26, for an average of 2.1 and 2.5 respectively. Of the 80 Senate offspring, 46 are male and 34 female.

Among the four top leadership posts in the chamber, only one, Asst. Minority Leader Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, is an attorney.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, in the most powerful post, is an education professor, while his assistant, Jackson of Cleveland, is in public relations. The top Republican, Minority Leader

Air National Guard Seeking 400 Recruits

Three area Ohio Air National Guard units have started Operation "Jet Set '77" to help bolster their ranks.

The "Jet Set '77" campaign seeks to enlist 400 new Air Guard personnel between April 1 and June 30.

The drive involves the 160th Air Refueling Group and the 121st Tactical Fighter Wing at Rickenbacker and the 220th Electronics Installation unit from Zanesville.

Lieutenant Colonel William Ingler, project officer for "Jet Set '77", hopes to recruit new personnel through the many educational opportunities presently available to Ohio Air Guard members.

"We're aiming our campaign at both the high school graduate and the prior service person," said Ingler.

"We do offer a young person the opportunity to go to college or Air Force trade school at no cost to him or her," he said.

"Prior service personnel have the chance to wear their former rank again, and to perform training at places like California, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and even Europe," he said.

Persons interested in "Jet Set '77" and the Ohio Air National Guard should call Master Sergeant Motz at Rickenbacker Air Force Base, telephone 497-0670. Collect calls are accepted.

Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, also in public relations, is a former Statehouse newspaper correspondent.

Other Senate professions include local and state politics, real estate, business, insurance, publishing, school administrator and teacher, advertising, labor relations, and funeral director.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

For years the seven o'clock whistle at a furniture factory went echoing unchallenged through the neighborhood. But one day a disgruntled home owner filed suit to "abate this nuisance."

"I just don't like the noise," he told the court. "What gives them the right to intrude on my peace and quiet?"

However, the company was able to prove that no one else in the neighborhood found the whistle annoying. The court dismissed the case on the ground that the complaint was over sensitive-out of step with the rest of the community.

When is noise an illegal nuisance? There are no hard-and-fast rules. But generally speaking, the law follows the tastes and sensibilities of the average person. It also examines the commonsense realities of the situation. Thus:

In another case, a court refused to shut down an admittedly noisy day nursery. The court pointed out that the nursery was located on a commercial street where there was plenty of other noise anyhow.

And in a third case the court declined to interfere with Little League games played on a sand-lot. Nowadays, the court told an objecting neighbor, we must accept "not only modern conveniences but also modern inconveniences."

On the other hand, a man who kept a diesel truck at his house was ordered to stop revving the motor at 6 a.m.

"Noise made during normal sleeping hours," said the judge, "may be a nuisance while the same noise during the day would not be."

And another householder had to pay damages for playing his radio full blast, all day long, at an open window near a neighbor's kitchen.

True, the "noise" was nothing but radio programs. But the court said the man's spiteful motive pushed it beyond the pale of legality.

Indian Lore Studied In Experiment

FORT ANCIENT, Ohio (AP) — The students and teachers have given themselves Indian names and their classroom is the open air.

The "school" is part of an outdoor classroom experiment involving fifth-graders from all three elementary schools in the Northridge school district.

The school principal is called Swift Eagle from the Sun. The pupils are known as Little Deer, Brave Bear and Little Wolf.

During lessons they are surrounded by woods, ponds, campfires and trails.

It's on a reservation of sorts, the Triple K Ranch at Camp Kern east of Lebanon.

About 40 pupils from the schools spend 2½ days at the Warren County retreat learning about history and the environment.

"While learning about the Shawnee Indians, who once lived on this land, we give everyone an Indian name and teach them how to make about 100 signs with their hands," said Morrison elementary principal Phil Price.

The kids gave Price his Indian name of Swift Eagle from the Sun.

"They'll sit around a campfire and I'll come in as a trader and I'll offer them beaver pelts or arrowheads for their land. I tell them they can move to the wide open spaces called Indiana. Usually when the discussion is done, they want to scalp the trader," Price said.

The pupils also are given a tour of Fort Ancient, the largest prehistoric Indian earthworks in North America. And they hike along the old stagecoach trail leading to the Cross Keys tavern built in 1802.

If the enthusiasm of the children is any indication, the educational experiment is a success. Some of them don't want to return to their traditional classrooms.

"All of us have been trying to think of ways to stay down here," said Douglas Farmer, who adopted the nickname Brave Bear.

"We went on a hike last night and came this close to an owl," said the fifth-grader, holding his hands about two feet apart. "I was close enough to touch it."

The program is designed to let the children learn about history and the environment and to experience some of it.

Nitroglycerine Hunt Proves Big Fizzle

HOLLIDAY, Tex. (AP) — An Army demolition team spent three days digging up the main street of this North Texas farm town because Georgia Lynch thought her dead sister had left several jars of nitroglycerin in the cellar.

Her sister didn't, and on Friday the demolition team headed back to Fort Sill, near Lawton, Okla., leaving behind a 15-by-11 foot hole.

"We have gone past the edges of the cellar, beyond the walls and beneath the floor," said Lt. David Farmer, adding that no bottles of the highly explosive, liquid compound were found.

While the team was at work, residents of nearby homes were evacuated. They were allowed to return to their homes at night when digging stopped.

Ink Sleuths Detect False Bookkeeping

WASHINGTON (AP) — White collar criminals look out: Treasury Department sleuths have developed a new method to detect false bookkeeping. They can tell from the ink whether documents have been backdated.

The program, called ink tagging, was launched in 1973 and is about 70 per cent complete, according to spokesmen for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF).

The department has enlisted the aid of major ink manufacturers to change their chemical formulations each year.

Each change, officials say, represents a date prior to which that particular ink did not exist.

Six of 16 ink manufacturers are participating in the program and five others are experimenting with it, according to ATF.

The ink from suspect documents can be analyzed by ATF scientists and compared with standard ink samples kept in its library.

"Often it is possible to prove a document was backdated if the questioned ink matches a library ink that did not exist when the document was dated," a spokesman said.

Perhaps the most famous ink tagging case involved former Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Investigators had a diary of someone who said he had paid kickbacks to Agnew. Scientists were able to verify that all the inks used were available at the time of the entries, and that the sequence showed a random pattern consistent with day-to-day work in a diary.

According to prosecutors in the case, this evidence was crucial to eliciting Agnew's no contest plea in 1973 to income tax charges.

In another case, former Cincinnati Police Chief Carl Goodin was convicted of perjury after an ink expert proved that a list of informants was manufactured and backdated.

And in the Juan Corona mass murder trial in California, AFT ink experts proved that Corona's pen was used to prepare the death list in his diary.

See Record Hunt For Wild Turkeys

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A record number of wild turkey hunters are expected to take to the hills of southeastern Ohio May 2-14 for the 1977 hunting season, according to the Division of Wildlife.

Wild turkeys were successfully reintroduced in the state in the late 1950s. The range of the game species has expanded to 20 counties through a professional management program.

Hunting for turkeys is permitted in 14 of the 20 counties: Athens, Adams, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Monroe, Perry, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton and Washington.

A valid state hunting and trapping license is required in addition to a turkey hunting permit.

Reserve And Varsity Baseball Teams Reviewed

By DIANA SEITZ
This year's varsity baseball team consists of 16 players. They are catcher Lance Reese; pitchers Eric Graves, Dave Anderson, Dean Gloyd, Greg Prince, and John Sanders; first base Duane Keller, John Pabst, and Craig Meyers; second base Terry Trego, and Monte Wornhas; third base Bret Hastings, Joe DeFelice; short stop Greg Prince, John Sanders; outfielders David Nardi, Garry VanPelt, and Ernie Fielder.

There are seven experienced lettermen returning to the TV diamond. The coaches feel that with these lettermen and a new pitching machine, the team will be greatly improved. The '77 team will face strong competition in the Metro League as well as teams outside the league.

Head Coach Bill Lewis stated, "Teays Valley's baseball program is very competitive with other schools." Lewis has had a seven-year coaching record of 114 wins and 108 losses including a number two Metro league ranking five times, one county championship, one county runner-up placement, a sectional championship and one district runner-up berth.

Lewis says, "Our reserve baseball program is very well run with Coach Campbell at the controls. Campbell does a fine job of developing young players in the TV baseball program." This year's reserve team consists of pitchers Mitchell Osborn, Tim Gearhart, Mike Herron, Mike Osborn; catchers Brian Logsdon, Steve Stover, Scott Bartholomew; first base Jeff Pabst, Scott Reynolds; second base, Jeff Keifer, Bill Pettibone; third base, Shawn Blue, David Myers; shortstop Charlie Lee, Kevin Mullet; outfielders Tim Stoffer, Jeff Prince, Randy Riegel, R.D. Reese, Dean Rush.

The reserves are looking for improvement in their pitching with more pitchers giving added depth to the staff. Campbell states "Preseason predictions are difficult to make with freshmen and sophomore players. A great deal depends upon how they react to game situations." Campbell feels that on the varsity level if a team continues to get players coming into the program who really want to play baseball and are willing to sacrifice a little... then our teams will always be a success regardless of the won-loss record.

Counselor Leaves T.V. After 9 Years

HOWARD WEAVER

By JOAN MAYCOCK
Howard Weaver has resigned his position as TV guidance counselor to accept a new position as intermediate supervisor for the Pickaway County Board of Education and coordinator of the county guidance program.

Weaver has been a guidance counselor at TV for nine years. He says he enjoys best working with seniors in helping them make important decisions. He realizes that students have problems that cannot be taken care of in the classroom and they need other assistance. Weaver believes that he furnished students with that additional help.

Not only has Weaver been a counselor, but he has also taught eighth grade Ohio history, twelfth grade government and economics and ninth grade general science. He has taught in the Chillicothe, Westfall, and Zane Trace school system.

Teays Valley students have been served by this hard-working counselor since 1967. Other duties include enrollment of students into Eastland Vocational School, advisor to National Honor Society, setting up graduation awards, organizing registration for the high school students, and career counseling for ninth and tenth graders.

In recent years, Weaver played a big part in setting up computer scheduling and he encouraged the introduction of semester courses into the school curriculum.

Weaver resides with his wife, Helen and his three children at Route 188, Circleville.

The students and faculty of Teays Valley wish Weaver success in his new job and thank him for his years of dedication to the school.

Game Proceeds Help Sponsor Exchange Student

By LeAnn Eyerman
A basketball game was held March 25, that matched the high school faculty men against the junior high faculty men with additional help from the elementary schools. Proceeds of $140 will help sponsor an exchange student from TV this summer.

High scorer on the high school team was Jeff Sheets with 17 points. Other scorers on the team were Helsel - 12; Pusey - 10; Forsythe - 8; Swihart - 6; and Claibourne - 5. Also playing was Mr. Thompson.

The final score was high school - 58 and junior high - 50. Although the junior high lost, they played a good game staying within at least 10 points all of the time.

Referees for the game were TV guard Tim Tosca and "Whistle-Happy" Perri Martin, who used her whistle very sparingly.

Pollution Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indiana Sen. Richard Lugar called for strict enforcement of pollutant discharge standards and prompt action against parties guilty of waterway pollution. Lugar's comments were prompted by three recent toxic chemical spills on the Ohio River. Lugar said the problem extends beyond the recent events and threatens water quality throughout Indiana.

"We must insure strict enforcement of pollutant discharge standards, a better early warning system to alert downstream communities when spills do take place and effective penalties for any offender who intentionally dumps highly toxic substances into streams and water supplies," Lugar said Friday.

The Republican said spills often have the greatest impact on small communities lacking sophisticated water and sewage treatment facilities.

"The common sense approach to this sort of problem is prevention," Lugar said. "Our intent is not to impose any new restrictions on the already burdened private sector."

"However, the discharge of toxic chemicals into sewage systems or lakes and streams is often no accident. And in such cases the offenders, when identified and convicted, should be punished to the full extent of the law."

Coach Praises Girls' Team

"They're a great group of girls who were able to experience success through mental poise, hard work, unselfishness, and continually putting forth 100 per cent effort," says Coach Angie Rinehart of her class AA district runner-up girls' basketball team. Coach Rinehart believes that aggressive defense and good rebounding were the team's strong points.

The lady Vikes ended their season with a league record of 12-2 and a seasonal record of 17-3 including tournament games. The girls also tied for the Metro league championship for the third consecutive year. Rinehart has been coaching basketball at TV for five years with a career record of 78-14.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The passage of Substitute Senate Bill 125 — Voter Registration Bill — was the highlight of Senate activity this week. Sub. S.B. 125, which was approved last Wednesday evening by the Senate Elections, Financial Institutions, and Insurance Committee, won full Senate approval at this Wednesday's floor session. The vote split the Senate along strictly partisan lines.

Sub. S.B. 125, which now goes to the House for its consideration will have far reaching consequences for Ohio voters. The bill requires registration in all 88 Ohio counties as a precondition for voting. All counties must implement voter registration by November 7, 1978. At present, 22 Ohio counties do not require registration. The bill also provides for registration by mail, registration at the polls on election day, door-to-door registration and registration upon application for or renewal of a driver's license. Registration will now be made "permanent" — that is, failure to vote will not result in cancellation of registration.

Under the terms of Sub. S.B. 125, the Secretary of State can designate any county office as a distributor of registration forms. Moreover, the Secretary of State is required to maintain a master list of all registered voters in Ohio.

In registering their opposition to Substitute Senate Bill 125, Senate Republicans emphasized the fact that "they did not oppose certain registration as easy as possible for all Ohioans. They did oppose certain provisions of the bill which, in their view, could lead to increased potential for fraud, increased confusion, delay and inconvenience for voters at the polls and an exorbitant cost for county boards of elections in Ohio."

In an attempt to remove these potential problem areas from the bill, Republican Senators offered several amendments on the floor. These amendments were all defeated on straight party line votes. The first amendment would have eliminated election-day registration. This provision was strongly opposed by officials of Ohio's County Boards of Elections. Many felt registration at the polls on election day would create very long lines and delays in voting, and

State Ends Plan To Drop Inspections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Stymied by court and federal government decisions, Agriculture Director John Stackhouse says he is giving up efforts to get the state out of the meat and poultry inspection business.

There are no plans to press further for abandonment of the state program, Stackhouse said Friday after a preliminary court injunction was issued forbidding the action and the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced it will not take over inspections within the state.

Stackhouse indicated that any additional action on the matter would have to come from the legislature.

The agriculture director had sought to cancel the state program in a move to save the state $4.2 million in the coming biennium.

A federation of small Ohio meat-packers went to court, asserting that the state meat inspection program was a mandate from the General Assembly and could not be terminated without legislative action.

On March 25, the group won a temporary restraining order from Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge William Gillie. Friday's order by Gillie was the second step toward permanently prohibiting the state from dropping its inspection program.

The USDA, in officially dropping plans to assume the Ohio program, said it had only agreed to take over because it had been told by state officials that no money was available in the state treasury to run the program.

Co-Op Grain Plan Faces Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal by the Agriculture Department to let cooperatives play what could be a much larger role in handling huge U.S. grain crops probably will be opposed by independent grain companies with the same vigor they demonstrated when the idea was unsuccessfully brought up four years ago.

The proposal, announced Friday, would let co-ops collect federal price support loans for farmers who produce wheat, corn and other grain. It also could lead to large "pools" of grain supervised by co-ops which then would dicker with buyers to get higher prices for farmer members.

Some critics have complained that this could lead eventually to a co-op grain monopoly and to higher consumer food prices.

Officials said the plan could fit with the Carter administration's goal of setting up farmer-controlled food grain reserves. The plan is open for public comment until May 12 and also covers barley, grain sorghum, oats and rye.

Normally, farmers apply individually through local federal offices for government loans on their crops. The proposal would let a co-op get the loans and distribute the money to farmers. At the same time, the co-op would have access to the centralized pool of grain it then could sell for producers.

After it was proposed in June 1973, critics said that such loan and pooling arrangements not only could lead to co-op grain monopolies but that it discriminated against small independent grain dealers who buy directly from farmers.

Court Rules On Taconite

SILVER BAY, Minn. (AP) — Ruling in a seven-year legal battle that had brought threats of shutdown from this area's major employer, the Minnesota Supreme Court has given Reserve Mining Co. permission to dump ore wastes at a land-based disposal site of its choosing.

Friday's ruling was greeted with enthusiasm by many of the firm's 3,000 employees in this area of northeast Minnesota. State Attorney General Warren Spannaus said he would decide Monday whether to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review the decision.

Reserve had threatened to close its plant here and a taconite mine in nearby Babbitt if the state did not approve permits for a site it had chosen as an alternative to dumping the wastes in Lake Superior.

Lake dumping has been prohibited because asbestos-like particles believed associated with the wastes have been found in drinking water supplies and are believed hazardous to health.

The state had objected to Reserve's preferred site, called Milepost 7, because it feared blowing taconite dust could threaten the health of Silver Bay residents four miles away.

A leading opponent of the plan in 1973 was the National Grain and Feed Association, a trade group representing private grain dealers. A spokesman said it probably will oppose the renewed proposal but had not studied the plan.

The department said that the proposal would simply extend co-op marketing participation to the grain crops, a practice which has been used by co-ops representing cotton, rice, soybeans and honey producers for some time.

Tom Watson Wins Master Tourney

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Legend seems to refuse to emit its final gasps in the case of Jack Nicklaus, the winningest and most phenomenal golfer of all time. The Masters Tournament has handed over the coveted green coat to a new champion — a pleasant, freckled Huckleberry Finn youngster out of Missouri named Tom Watson — but the shadow of Big Jack hovers bigger than ever over the game.

They said this was the year the young lions would take over — Bruce Lietzke, Danny Edwards, Gary Koch, Tom Purtzer and Andy Bean, those strong-armed rookies who dominated the winter tour.

The putts aren't falling for old Jack anymore, the smart guys insisted, some of the power has gone from his drive and his competitive edge has been dulled by riches and success.

Jack showed 'em. Young Watson won the green coat this time, deservedly, but it was Nicklaus who put on the greatest final-round surge and missed winning his sixth Masters title by the margin of a two-second stroke — Watson's curling 20-foot putt on the 17th hole.

Jack, the man some said was showing signs of decay at age 37, produced a round that measured up to any in his remarkable record of 61 tour victories, 16 major championships and

Girls Borrow Swim Secrets

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — American women, soundly beaten in the 1976 Olympics, may be on the road to recovery by borrowing training secrets from their conquerors, East Germany.

"The coaches in this country are doing a better job now. They changed their training methods. I'm optimistic for Moscow in 1980," said Jim "Doc" Counsilman, Indiana University's coaching legend, after the AAU indoor meet Saturday night.

The East Germans won 11 of the 13 women's events at Montreal last year. The United States managed just one gold medal, but American women scorned the idea of lifting weights, one of the Europeans' secrets.

Jennifer Hooker, one of the stars of the AAU meet, offered a clue when she said, "I lift weights about three times a week."

Miss Hooker, 15, a Mission Viejo, Calif., high school sophomore, managed a sixth place at Montreal. "I felt bad after the Olympics," she said. "I wanted to be second or third. The American women should have picked up seconds and thirds like the United States men."

Miss Hooker exemplifies the kids that are dominating American women's swimming. The star of the AAU meet was a 14-year-old eighth grader. Tracy Caulkins, from Nashville, Tenn., lowered American records in both breaststrokes and piled up 70 points, tops in the four-day meet.

Best of the men was 18-year-old Scott Spann, an Auburn University freshman with 75 points. Bruce Furniss was second with 67 points and his retiring Southern California teammate, John Naber, third with 66.

Miss Caulkins and Spann each won a $1,000 college scholarship for their performances.

The Mission Viejo, Calif., Nadadores displaced Southern California as the AAU indoor team champion, accumulating 721 points. Southern Cal was second with 645½ points. The Nadadores won the women's team crown and the Trojans the men's honors.

Indians Set Mark With Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"Everything they swung at was a base hit," said Boston's Carl Yastrzemski after the Cleveland Indians erupted for a 13-run eighth inning.

"I've been involved in some wild ones in this ballpark, but this was the wildest," Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson said Sunday.

Going into the eighth, the teams were tied 3-3. But Cleveland sent 17 batters to the plate in the inning en route to a 19-9 victory.

In other American League games Sunday, Kansas City blanked Detroit 5-0, Toronto nipped Chicago 3-1, Texas edged Baltimore 3-2, Milwaukee squeezed by New York 2-1, California clobbered Seattle 12-5, and Minnesota and Oakland split a doubleheader, the A's taking the opener 9-6 and Minnesota the nightcap 7-1.

Boston Manager Don Zimmer looked at it philosophically.

"What can you do about it except laugh," he said. "There's nothing you can do about it. I just hope we don't play like that for another two or three years."

Cleveland scored its 13 runs on 10 hits, three walks and an error, triggered by Rick Manning's triple. Then the Red Sox bounced back with six runs in their half of the eighth, setting a modern major league record of 19 runs by two clubs in an inning. The old mark was 17 scored by the Red Sox themselves against Detroit in 1953.

Royals 5, Tigers 0
Home runs by Al Cowens and Darrell Porter, plus six-hit pitching by starter Jim Colburn and reliever Larry Gura paced Kansas City to victory over Detroit. John Mayberry added two RBI to the Royals' attack as Kansas City swept its season opening three-game series with the Tigers.

Racers Sting Cincinnati In Long Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Indianapolis Racers coach Jacques Demers was wolfishly attacking a 2 a.m. breakfast of box lunch chicken when a cry came from the back of the bus.

"Hey coach, how come the chicken's cold?" asked goaltender Paul Hoganson.

"You figure it out, Hogie," hollered back Demers.

The Racers, inspired by Hoganson's brilliant goaltending, had just defeated the Cincinnati Stingers 4-3 in the longest pro hockey game in 41 years, a triple overtime affair that needed 48 extra minutes.

"Hogie was just sensational," said Demers, whose club overcame the loss of four injured regulars.

The game winner came on a shot Gene Peacosh called "too good to be true," ending the Easter morning marathon that took five hours, 111 shots, and some acrobatic saves.

"It was a picture hockey game," said Demers, said of the longest game in World Hockey Association history.

Peacosh ended it after 48:40 of overtime by taking a perfect carom from Mark Lomenda's missed slapshot and lifting it past Cincinnati goalie Norm LaPointe.

"I just tried not to fumble it at that point. I knew it was over if I didn't get nervous," said Peacosh, whose goal gave the injury riddled Racers a 1-0 lead in the WHA semifinal playoffs. The best-of-7 series continues Tuesday night in Cincinnati.

"I didn't think it was ever going to end," said Peacosh.

"You don't expect to see a carom like that," said Peacosh, a left winger who scored 22 regular season goals. "To tell the truth, I thought the puck was over the blue line. Then I saw Mark shoot, so I turned back to the net."

The loss left the favored Stingers winless in 13 overtime outings this season. The Racers lost only two of 17.

"The pressure was on them," said the Racers' Pat Stapleton. "We could afford a mistake and they couldn't. It was a matter of sitting and hoping for the break."

Ed Payton Signs With Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have signed the free agent Edward Payton, younger brother of Chicago Bears running star Walter Payton to a contract for next season.

Both Paytons played their college football at Jackson State, with the younger brother coaching high school football and playing semipro since his graduation.

A Browns spokesman said the 5-foot-10, 175-pound Edward Payton will be tried as a kick return specialist.

The Browns also said they have offered a contract to Bill Kahl-Winter, a 6-5, 26-pound free agent lineman from Princeton. Kahl-Winter worked out here last week.

Blue Jays 3, White Sox 1
Rookie Jerry Garvin and reliever Pete Vuckovich combined to hold Chicago to just six hits while Dave McKay drove in two runs to spark Toronto's win over the White Sox.

The Blue Jays' second selection in their expansion draft, Garvin gave up five hits over eight innings in his major league debut. Steve Stone went the distance for Chicago, giving up five hits while walking three and striking out five.

Brewers 2, Yankees 1
Sixto Lezcano slammed two home runs to spoil Don Gullett's American League debut and lift Milwaukee past the New York Yankees. Lezcano tied the game in the fourth inning with a homer to left, then broke the tie in the ninth with a blast to right center.

Rangers 3, Orioles 2
Texas scored two runs in the first inning, then relief pitcher Paul Lindblad squelched a seventh-inning Baltimore rally to preserve the Rangers victory and complete a three-game series sweep.

Bert Campaneris led off the game with a double and, after Bump Wills singled, scored on John Ellis' single. Wills came home on the front end of a double steal. Tom Grieve homered in the second for the Rangers' final run.

Baltimore scored in the fifth on a double and single. Doug DeCinces opened the Orioles' seventh with a homer. Lindblad, who came in after Rick Dempsey followed with a single and Billy Smith walked, set down the Orioles the rest of the way.

Angels 12, Mariners 5
Frank Tanana won his second game of the season as Joe Rudi drove in five runs with a grand slam home run and a double. Three other California players also hit homers in the Angels' victory over Seattle.

Tanana, a hard-throwing lefthander, allowed only three hits in six innings as he picked up his second victory in five days over the American League expansion team.

A's 9-1, Twins 6-7
Minnesota and Oakland split a doubleheader with the A's taking the opener with the help of six unearned runs and Minnesota winning the nightcap behind right-hander Paul Thormodsgard, making his major league debut.

Rookie Wayne Gross slammed a two-run homer, his first in the big leagues, as Oakland received help when Twins shortstop Roy Smalley committed two errors. Doc Medich, who signed with Oakland after playing out his option last season, got the victory for the A's after working 7 2-3 innings. Jerry Terrell hit a two-run homer for Minnesota in the opener.

In the second game, Thormodsgard gave up his only run in the first inning when Rodney Scott singled, stole second and came home on Dick Allen's single. A two-run homer by Craig Kussick was enough, but the Twins added three runs in the sixth and two more in the ninth, the latter on a homer by Larry Hsieh.

Braves Power Hitting Overwhelms Aces, 22-3

Logan Elm combined solid hitting, fine pitching and an errorless defense to gain a 22-3 win over Amanda-Clearcreek Saturday in a non league tilt on the Aces' diamond.

Tim Justus opened on the hill for the Braves and went four innings with Lynn Strehle working the last three frames. They allowed four hits, walked five and fanned 13.

Young, Crites, Thompson, Harley and Myers all had a turn on the mound for the Aces. They gave up a total of 14 hits, 17 walks and struck out three.

The Braves tallied five runs in the top of the first, one in the second, five in the fourth, exploded for six more in the fifth and capped it with five big ones in the seventh.

Amanda-Clearcreek scored once in the bottom of the fourth and twice in the sixth.

Strehle also led the Braves attack with a home run, two singles and six RBIs. Jerry Scanlan rapped two singles, Randy Pontius slammed a homer and single, Chuck Cave cracked a two-bagger, Tony Crist belted a homer and two singles, John Mettler cracked a home run while Jeff Collins and Mike Davis each rapped a single.

Christopher, Cassill, Thompson and Hartley each had a single to account for Amanda-Clearcreek's hits.

Logan Elm is now 4-1 for the season, 1-0 in Mid State play, and will be at Bloom Carroll 4:15 p.m. today.

The Braves have an unusual twinbill Tuesday when they host Westfall at 1 p.m. and then face visiting Berne Union at 4:15 p.m. in a make up game.

Hill tied for fifth in the high jump and Milstead tied for sixth in the 440.

Pioneers, Braves Reserves Split

Zane Trace and Logan Elm's reserve baseball teams split a twinbill Saturday on the Braves diamond with Logan Elm taking the first game 4-3 and the Pioneers winning the second fray.

Calton and Davis hurled the win for Logan Elm in the first game while Don Williams and Bub Wright were on the mound for Zane Trace.

Congrove and Vanover slammed doubles for the Braves while Wright and Mike Mallow each belted a two-bagger for the Pioneers.

Bob Seifert and Gary Stump teamed up to hurl the win for Trace while Adams and Vanover were on the hill for the losers.

Mark Lingg and Jeff Davis both bombed a triple for the Pioneers while Davis led Logan Elm with a pair of singles.

Giants Club Dodgers, 8-4

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
Rookie San Francisco Manager Joe Altobelli wouldn't have had to wait so long for his first major league victory if he had remembered Ed Halicki's mysterious powers over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 6-foot-7 Halicki beat Los Angeles for the fifth straight time Sunday, surrendering 11 hits but surviving for an 8-4 triumph over the Dodgers. That gave the Giants and Altobelli their first victory of the National League baseball campaign after two season-opening losses.

"I'm happy to get that first one off my back," said Altobelli, who replaced Bill Rigney at the conclusion of last season. "That first win feels awfully good."

He should have expected it, since the game was played at Los Angeles, where Halicki did not allow a run in three shutout appearances during the 1976 season.

"I can't really explain it," said the towering right-hander. "I just like pitching here. The mound is good, and so is the atmosphere."

"I like beating the Dodgers. I feel like the king of the hill."

Darrell Evans provided the power, driving in three runs on three hits, including a home run. Johnny

Padres Rookie Tops Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Have the San Diego Padres found another Randy Jones?

Rookie Bob Shirley, 22, had just finished pitching his first major league game Sunday and the comparisons to Jones, the National League's Cy Young award winner, were already circulating.

"He's got a chance to win 20 games very soon," said Padres' pitching coach Roger Craig. "He and Randy are different types of pitchers, but they both remind me of Whitey Ford the way they control a game."

Shirley, vaulting from the minors to the majors in one year, made his big league debut in stunning style, striking out 11 world champions while spacing four hits in a 12-4 San Diego romp.

"It's a dream come true," said the former University of Oklahoma standout who may give the Padres one of the most improved pitching staffs in baseball. He joins Jones, a 22 game winner last year, plus corookie of the year reliever Butch Metzger and free agent addition Rollie Fingers.

"I don't think people know what we have here," said Shirley, the Padres' No. 1 selection in the 1976 January supplemental draft.

He obviously just wasn't referring to pitching.

The Padres won the last two games for a split of the season-opening series, out-hitting the Reds 47-25.

Dave Winfield, a hitting hero and hubman in the Padres offense, explained it best.

"In the past, Mike Ivie and I were called upon to carry the offense. Now anybody is likely to explode now that we've got guys like Gene Tenace and George Hendrick," said Winfield, who had a pair of two-run doubles in the Padres' 15-hit attack.

Tenace, a hitting star in the Oakland A's 1972 World Series victory over the Reds, drove in seven runs in the four-game series.

"I'm looking for a big year all the way around," said Winfield, who appears on the verge of greatness after hitting .283 last year.

Winfield said Shirley's performance was no fluke. "He came at us like that in spring training."

Shirley, who lost his first four starts as a pro last summer in Class AA ball, went to spring training as a nonroster player but won a starting berth with a 3.32 earned run average and 18 strikeouts in 19 innings.

Craig was impressed from the start. "The first time I saw him, I told management that if I had my say, this kid's made the club. My feeling was that if I've got 10 better pitchers on this team, we might not lose a game," said Craig.

Shirley's breaking pitches silenced Cincinnati's loud bats.

"He gives you one ball to hit and you better hit it," said Pete Rose, whose three-run double in the ninth came when Shirley departed with two out. "He definitely knows what he is doing."

But, reminded Rose, "we've had history of having trouble with new pitchers the first time around. It may be different the next time."

The Reds open their first road game of the season tonight at Houston with Woodie Fryman, 1-0, facing Doug Konieczny.

LeMaster added a two-run single to break a 1-1 tie in the fourth, and Larry Herndon added a solo home run for San Francisco.

In the other National League games Sunday, the Atlanta Braves blanked the Houston Astros 6-0; the San Diego Padres blasted the Cincinnati Reds 12-4; the Chicago Cubs downed the New York Mets 5-2; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7, and the Montreal Expos topped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-8.

Braves 6, Astros 0
Right-hander Dick Ruthven scattered seven hits and Rowland Office drove in two runs as Atlanta beat Houston in a game spiced by two bench-clearing incidents.

The first came in the sixth inning, after Ruthven hit the Astros' Cliff Johnson with a pitch. The benches emptied again after two brush-back pitches by Houston's Gene Pentz.

NBA Playoff Set Despite Strike

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The National Basketball Association playoffs are here, finally, and not even a referees' strike is going to head them off.

It will be Chicago at Portland, Detroit at Golden State and San Antonio at Boston Tuesday night and Cleveland at Washington Wednesday night as the best-of-three first-round series begin.

Who will be refereeing is far less certain. The 24 members of the National Association of Basketball Referees went on strike on the final day of the regular season Sunday, leaving the officiating chores to non-union members Richie Powers and Earl Strom, referees from the semipro Eastern Basketball League and other local officials.

"Under the circumstances, I thought they were tremendous," Boston Celtics President Red Auerbach said of substitute officials Roger McCann and Paul Campbell, who worked Boston's 115-105 victory over Cleveland at Boston Garden. "They made some mistakes, but all in all, they were no different from what we've had all year."

In other regular season finales Sunday, the Washington Bullets beat the Philadelphia 76ers 131-121, the Chicago Bulls stopped the Buffalo Braves 120-99, the New York Knicks outscored the Detroit Pistons 144-126, the Los Angeles Lakers topped the Seattle SuperSonics 113-104, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the San Antonio Spurs 133-125, the Phoenix Suns whipped the New York Nets 128-104 and the New Orleans Jazz surprised the Denver Nuggets 139-125.

Here's how the NBA playoff system works:

The four division winners receive byes through the first round. Then the remaining teams are listed by conference in order of winning percentage. No. 1 plays No. 4 and No. 2 plays No. 3 in best-of-three first-round series, with the team with the better winning percentage getting the homecourt advantage in the odd game of the series.

Bullets 131, 76ers 121
Phil Chenier led the Bullets with 29 points, including 14 in the third period when Washington took the lead for good. Mitch Kupchak had 23 points and hit 10 for 17 from the field, finishing with a field goal percentage of .572—best ever by an NBA rookie.

Bulls 120, Braves 99
Chicago dominated its game at Buffalo, taking the lead in the opening minute and building it to 31 points with 8½ minutes to play. Wilbur Holland and Artis Gilmore led a balanced Bulls attack with 16 points apiece.

Knicks 144, Pistons 126
The Knicks came up with their biggest output of the season and posted their 10th victory in the last 13 games as Bob McAdoo scored 28 and Lonnie Shelton and Walt Frazier had 27 each. It was the final game for Knicks Coach Red Holzman and forward Bill Bradley, who are retiring at the end of this season.

Lakers 113, Sonics 104
Los Angeles finished with a 53-29 record, best in the NBA, putting the Sonics away with a 15-4 burst midway through the final period. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 30 points for Los Angeles, including 11 in the clinching spur.

Suns 128, Nets 104
In a matchup of division tailenders, the Suns scored 36 points in the third period in breaking away from the Nets. Ron Lee led Phoenix with 21 points. The Suns' Tom Van Arsdale, who has announced his retirement, and twin brother Dick received a standing ovation when they were removed from the game together in the fourth quarter.

Jazz 139, Nuggets 125
Pete Maravich of the Jazz poured in 45 points, finishing the season with a 31.1 average, tops in the league. Teammate Nate Williams had 41 points, while David Thompson tallied 40 for Denver.

Threaten Boycott Of Coors

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Striking workers at The Adolph Coors Co., the nation's fifth largest brewery, threatened to mount a nationwide boycott today. The company has countered with threats to replace the strikers.

About 1,500 employees walked off their jobs last Tuesday in a dispute about seniority rights and other language in a new contract that Coors put into effect despite union rejection.

Management and supervisory workers have kept the brewery running at about two thirds capacity, a Coors spokesman said.

Don Bodemann, vice president of striking Local 366 of the Brewery, Bottling, Can and Allied Industrial union, said letters urging the boycott went out to taverns and liquor stores in Colorado over the weekend. He said the AFL-CIO would carry the boycott to other states with help from local members.

Coors is distributed in 13 western states. A Coors spokesman said the beer is made available in other states by "bootleggers" who buy it in the 13 states and transport it to individual distributors.

A company official said Coors does not think the boycott will have any significant effect on beer sales, adding, "It is obvious they will use everything possible to discredit our company and our product."

He said 478 of the strikers have returned to work and that the brewery should be at full production within five weeks.

William Coors, company president, said replacements would be hired as permanent employees and warned strikers "it may lead to the loss of your jobs."

He accused the union of using striking workers as "sacrificial pawns in an ideological fight" between the AFL-CIO and Coors.

Union officials countered that the brewery could not fire the strikers even if it hired replacements.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you're an average Ohioan, your state income tax refund check this year amounts to $25.84, according to Auditor Thomas Ferguson.

The auditor's computer services staff has processed and sent out nearly 13 million in personal income tax

Ferguson said he expects several more large mailings of refund checks prior to the filing deadline next Friday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No, Tom Snyder doesn't want to host "Tonight" if Johnny Carson leaves. No, NBC News hasn't asked him about eventually anchoring the "NBC Nightly News," which John Chancellor now does.

Yes, NBC has asked him if he'd like to host a tube version of "People," magazine, which gets a six-week summer try even though a first effort Lily Tomlin hosted flopped earlier this season.

Having disposed of the first two rumors, Snyder said that in the matter of the "People" caper "they've (NBC) asked whether I want to do it — if they do it — and I said, 'Sure.'"

But the tall, quick-to-laugh star of NBC's late-hour "Tomorrow" interview show said nothing definite has been set on that yet.

Snyder, 40, was in this earthquake-prone town to tape — what else? — "The National Disaster Survival Test," a what-do-you-do-during disasters quiz NBC will air May 1 as its "Big Event" show.

The executive producer is Warren Bush who, Snyder says, taught a Marquette University journalism course Snyder attended in his student days. They hadn't seen each other since until work on the show began.

Snyder soon will have another kind of reunion — with California living. "Tomorrow," based in New York since December 1974, will move its headquarters back here — where it began in 1973 — next June.

Los Angeles is where he hit it big in 1970, when he began anchoring the last hour of a two-hour local weeknight newscast at NBC-owned KNBC. But he's not returning because he dislikes New York life.

It's mainly because Snyder, recently divorced, has a 12-year-old daughter here: "She'll be a teen-ager soon, and I think it's important for her to have me a little bit closer than 2,500 miles away."

And he's convinced NBC there's no reason he can't do "Tomorrow" here, now that he recently finished a second job he was anxious to leave — anchoring local news on NBC-owned WNBC-TV in New York.

That job was part of the deal when NBC moved him and "Tomorrow" out to the East Coast. He agreed to anchor the second hour of WNBC's two-hour "Newscenter 4" in addition to his "Tomorrow" duties each night.

Steer Clear Of Bald Tires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bald tires, besides being much more likely to slip on wet roads, are 44 times more likely to go flat than new tires, says the Tire Retread Information Bureau (TRIB).

Ninety per cent of tire trouble occurs when tires have 1-16 (or less) inches of tread remaining. For safe driving, it is essential to keep close tabs on balding tires, TRIB advises.

One way is to check the wear indicators built into all tires made after 1968, says TRIB. These will appear horizontally across the tire's face when its tread gets below 1-16 inch.

Another method is to insert a Lincoln's head penny upside down into several of the tread grooves. If the top of Lincoln's head shows in any of them, the tire should be replaced.

There are about 200 species of Philodendron.

Christians Celebrate Ascension Of Christ

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pope Paul VI wished the world "a happy Easter" in 14 languages, anarchists interrupted Mass in Paris' Notre Dame Cathedral, the Carters held a sunrise service on a Georgia back porch, and millions watched the re-enactment of the Easter story on television.

"Life is beautiful if it is new," the Pope told an estimated 200,000 people thronging St. Peter's Square and overflowing into nearby streets. "We believe that the young people of today are particularly predisposed to understand and welcome this good wish, which is full of hope and energy."

In Jerusalem, the crush of pilgrims was unusually heavy because Easter came on the same day this year for the Eastern and Western Christian churches.

While Orthodox and Roman Catholics worshiped at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, many Protestants attended sunrise services at another traditional tomb site outside the walls of the Old City. Lutherans went to the Mount of Olives, where the New Testament says Christ ascended to heaven.

In Paris, two young French women ran up the aisle of Notre Dame shouting and trying to unfurl a banner supporting the West German Baader-Meinhof gang of anarchists during services that were being televised throughout Western Europe. Police seized them on the steps of the altar, and the service continued.

President Carter and his family held a sunrise service on his son Jack's back porch in Calhoun, Ga. Amy read from the Bible, Mrs. Carter led a prayer, and the family talked about the death and resurrection of Christ and what it meant to them, the President reported later. Then the Carters went to Sunday school and church at the First Baptist Church.

Bright sunlight brought thousands to promenade up and down New York's Fifth Avenue, closed to traffic for 19 blocks for the annual Easter Parade. Atlantic City's boardwalk also was crowded.

The biggest Easter audience was in the homes of America Sunday night as millions watched the concluding half of Franco Zeffirelli's 6½-hour movie "Jesus of Nazareth." Audience figures were not yet available, but based on ratings of the first half April 3, NBC predicted a total audience of 90 million.

The officially atheistic Soviet government announced that Easter services were held "in all the temples and prayer houses of this country's cities and villages." In Moscow, special buses took people to the cemeteries to clean family graves and leave Easter pastries and eggs.

But in apparent competition with midnight church services, the government television service presented a late variety show featuring Liza Minnelli and other seldom-seen Western performers, and movie theaters had special late showings of popular French, Japanese and American films.

The rival factions of the Irish Republican Army held marches in both Dublin, capital of the Irish republic, and Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, to commemorate the 1916 Easter uprising. Meanwhile, the IRA's Official wing accused the Provisionals of planting a bomb that killed a 10-year-old Belfast boy and several hours later killing his uncle in a street ambush. The Provisionals denied responsibility for the bombing and refused to comment on the shooting.

Mike Asher, union steward and picket captain, said "I'm going to put in my eight hours, and that's it. And that's the general consensus. No one is going to put forth any extra effort."

Others say the union is stronger now than before the strike. Oscar Salyer, another union steward, said, "We stuck it out a long time, and that pulled us together. The strike began Jan. 10. The new contract provides for a 7.5 per cent wage hike and a new retirement clause."

DP&L Strike Ends, But Not Problems

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The strike against the Dayton Power & Light Co. by Utility Workers Union Local 175 may be over but union members say the problems are not.

The utility workers were returning to their jobs over the weekend after a strike that lasted three months.

"We have a lot of internal wounds to heal," Ted Potts, union vice president, said.

Some union members say those wounds may cause the company's efficiency to suffer for awhile.

A contract with DP&L was signed last Thursday by union president Harold Moots, but a dispute within the union has arisen over whether the vote that preceded the signing was valid.

Members say there were six questionable votes and a malfunctioning voting machine.

The union remains divided as to whether the contract is better than the first one they rejected last fall.

The union's tellers committee plans to ask the membership this week if they want to go through the legal process and expense of attempting to have the contract nullified because of the election controversy.

The union's lawyer reportedly told members of the committee that it could take years and thousands of dollars before the issue is settled.

Union members have mixed reaction about the effects of the election controversy on morale.

Mike Asher, union steward and picket captain, said "I'm going to put in my eight hours, and that's it. And that's the general consensus. No one is going to put forth any extra effort."

Others say the union is stronger now than before the strike.

Oscar Salyer, another union steward, said, "We stuck it out a long time, and that pulled us together. The strike began Jan. 10. The new contract provides for a 7.5 per cent wage hike and a new retirement clause."

CB Radio Removed From Vehicle

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a report of grand theft which occurred between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 3:50 p.m. Sunday at the Paul Huff residence, 255 N. Water Street in Williamsport.

The report states that culprits slipped a piece of wire through the rubber window seal on Huff's 1976 Cadillac and unlocked the door.

Once inside, the thieves took a CB radio and several other pieces of CB radio equipment. Total value of the missing merchandise was set at $508.

Deputies Check Two Saturday Mishaps

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies investigated two accidents over the weekend which resulted in injuries or citations.

The first accident occurred at 12:01 p.m. Saturday on the Ashville Pike, one tenth of a mile south of St. Paul Road.

According to the report, Janet Rose, 29, 11470 Lockbourne-Eastern Road, was northbound on Ashville Pike and had stopped to aid motorists involved in another accident.

Local Student Has Top Project In Science Fair

Emilie Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Caldwell, 17950 State Route 104, received top place with her biological science project at the Central District Science Fair Saturday at Central High School, Columbus.

More than 400 projects were displayed by students from Franklin, Delaware, Union, Madison and Pickaway Counties. About 60 projects received superior ratings of which 20 had perfect scores. The top 20 were divided into two groups — physical science and biological science. Neil Goodman, Walnut Ridge High School, had the top physical science project.

Miss Caldwell and Good will represent the district by presenting papers at the Ohio Academy of Science Symposia April 23 at Capital University.

Employment Survey Planned

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the week of April 18-22. Robert G. McWilliam, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit, announced today.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, this month's survey will have additional questions about swine flu vaccinations since October 1976; and the use of food stamps in 1976 and the first quarter of 1977. The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically-designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in February the survey indicated that of the 96.1 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 89.0 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.5 per cent, up from 7.3 per cent in January but substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 per cent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by people participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Just so you would know: we are Dick Kremer Shoes, operators of Quality Family Shoe Stores, in Southeastern Ohio. Circleville is our eighth, and we hope to make it our best store! Every pair is being offered at low, low bargain prices. Don't forget we honor MC and BAC, so hurry in soon and really save!
